

HORSE JUMPED THROUGH WINDOW.

Smashed a Plate Glass Worth $100 and Did Not Receive a Scratch.

SAW HIS MASTER INSIDE.

The Animal Joined Him with an Affectionate Whine After Kicking Loose from a Buggy.

County Superintendent C. P. Smith, of Jersey City, hardly knows which to be prouder of—that his horse loves him so dearly, or that it should be able to jump through a plate-glass window without as much as scratching itself. Compared to these two equises for gratification the loss of $100 worth of glass is a mere bagatelle.

Mr. Smith spent the greater part of Saturday in the inspection of various county institutions, and it was late in the afternoon when he drove down from the Heights to his real estate office at First street and Jersey avenue. Or, rather, not liking to expose his horse to the terrifying noise of the trolley cars, he left his wagon in charge of a boy at the corner of Coles street, a block away, and went to his office on foot.

It did not suit the horse to be left with only a total stranger for company. He whinnied plaintively after his recording master, and as soon as Mr. Smith turned into his office broke away from the restraining hand of the boy and trotted down the street.

The superintendent had just thrown open his desk and was studying the terms of a mortgage when his typewriter exclaimed: "Land sakes, Mr. Smith! Do look at what your horse is doing!"

There was the affectionate steed, pressing his black velvet nose against the big window and blinking intelligently at his master. Smith jumped up and made for the door, meaning to lead the animal away; but just then it drew back a pace or two and jumped playfully into the office, driving a great shower of shattered glass before it. Flailing itself delightedly by the wagon, it kicked itself free, and then ambled over to its master with the broken shafts dangling by its sides.

The superintendent had sunk back into his chair when the horse poked his head over his tail desk and looked into his face with a conciliatory expression. The typewriter had fainted.

Mr. Smith has given orders for a new window to be put in, and a railing. He says that he is deeply touched by such an eloquent proof of devotion on the part of a dumb animal, but that such demonstrations during business hours are subversive of discipline.

DRIVER KILLED; HIS HORSE COVERS THE ROUTE.

Spared in the Train Wreck, the Animal Goes the Rounds of the Baker's Regular Customers.

Train No. 13 of the Pennsylvania Railroad, known as the mail and newspaper express, made an unlucky trip yesterday morning.

At the Stetson crossing, two miles from New Brunswick, the delivery wagon of Philip Fleischman, a baker, of No. 240 Fulton street, in New Brunswick, was struck and the driver, Isaac Fleischman, the baker's sixteen-year-old brother, instantly killed.

The wagon was carried on the plot of the locomotive a mile before the engineer could bring his train to a standstill. Young Fleischman was on his way to Plainfield, where he has a route. The horse continued on to Plainfield, nine miles distant, stopped at the various houses on the route, as usual, and returned to Stetson, where he was caught three hours later.

EVERYTHING YOU REQUIRE.

Furnished rooms to let. Boarders wanted, bicycles, flat apartments, too. Situations, agents. Everything for you! There is no cause to wait. JOSEPH WAXMAN will satisfy All that you desire. JOURNAL ADS. will bring you All that you require. Consult Journal "Wants" To-day.

ATE RAREBIT FOR FAME, PERHAPS IMMORTALITY.

THE Welsh rarebit championship of New Jersey was competed for in the prizes of the Nutley Field Club on Saturday night before a large and refined crowd of spectators. The championship goes to the man who can eat the most rarebit. These rarebit games occur annually, and are run under rules carefully formulated by the club.

There were nine competitors, each of whom had trained long for the contest. At the previous rarebit contest a record was made of two gallons—that is, the winner devoured that quantity of cheese and beer.

and other articles brewed into a rarebit in a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

The rules provided that the competitors should make their own rarebits, each to contain a pound of cheese. The official timer and scorer was to see that each man finished in one hour, with the exception of beginners who had never before counted, and these were allowed ten minutes start.

The favorite was Conrad H. Ray. He has a large mouth and a hungry look, as well as a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

The rules provided that the competitors should make their own rarebits, each to contain a pound of cheese. The official timer and scorer was to see that each man finished in one hour, with the exception of beginners who had never before counted, and these were allowed ten minutes start.

The favorite was Conrad H. Ray. He has

a large mouth and a hungry look, as well as a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

The rules provided that the competitors should make their own rarebits, each to contain a pound of cheese. The official timer and scorer was to see that each man finished in one hour, with the exception of beginners who had never before counted, and these were allowed ten minutes start.

The favorite was Conrad H. Ray. He has

a large mouth and a hungry look, as well as a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

The rules provided that the competitors should make their own rarebits, each to contain a pound of cheese. The official timer and scorer was to see that each man finished in one hour, with the exception of beginners who had never before counted, and these were allowed ten minutes start.

The favorite was Conrad H. Ray. He has

a large mouth and a hungry look, as well as a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

The rules provided that the competitors should make their own rarebits, each to contain a pound of cheese. The official timer and scorer was to see that each man finished in one hour, with the exception of beginners who had never before counted, and these were allowed ten minutes start.

The favorite was Conrad H. Ray. He has

a large mouth and a hungry look, as well as a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

The rules provided that the competitors should make their own rarebits, each to contain a pound of cheese. The official timer and scorer was to see that each man finished in one hour, with the exception of beginners who had never before counted, and these were allowed ten minutes start.

The favorite was Conrad H. Ray. He has

a large mouth and a hungry look, as well as a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

The rules provided that the competitors should make their own rarebits, each to contain a pound of cheese. The official timer and scorer was to see that each man finished in one hour, with the exception of beginners who had never before counted, and these were allowed ten minutes start.

The favorite was Conrad H. Ray. He has

a large mouth and a hungry look, as well as a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

The rules provided that the competitors should make their own rarebits, each to contain a pound of cheese. The official timer and scorer was to see that each man finished in one hour, with the exception of beginners who had never before counted, and these were allowed ten minutes start.

The favorite was Conrad H. Ray. He has

a large mouth and a hungry look, as well as a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

The rules provided that the competitors should make their own rarebits, each to contain a pound of cheese. The official timer and scorer was to see that each man finished in one hour, with the exception of beginners who had never before counted, and these were allowed ten minutes start.

The favorite was Conrad H. Ray. He has

a large mouth and a hungry look, as well as a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

DENTIST KENNEDY READY FOR TRIAL.

Dolly Reynolds.

Prisoner Anxious to Prove He Didn't Kill "Dolly" Reynolds.

THE PROSECUTION DELAYS.

Accused Man Sends Word to the Journal That the District Attorney Holds Up the Case.

Samuel J. Kennedy, the dentist who has spent the last six months in the Tombs accused of killing Emeline C. Reynolds, known as "Dolly" Reynolds, at the Grand Hotel, on the night of August 15, was disappointed to learn that his case would not come up for trial to-day.

He sent word to a Journal reporter that he and his counsel, Friend & House, were ready to go on with the case, but that the delay came from the District Attorney's office. He is in fairly good health, and says he expects to prove his innocence.

Since his confinement in the Tombs Kennedy's wife and father have been unrelenting in their attentions to him and both believe firmly in his statement that all though he knew Miss Reynolds he had not seen her for a week or two before her death. Mrs. Kennedy has been living with her young child at New Dorp, S. I.

John C. Kennedy, the prisoner's father, says he has always found him a dutiful son who had no bad habits and whose life was entirely lacking in mystery. He was born in Illinois in 1866 and came to New York two years later. He graduated from the College of the City of New York in 1888 and then began the study of dentistry.

and other articles brewed into a rarebit in a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

The rules provided that the competitors should make their own rarebits, each to contain a pound of cheese. The official timer and scorer was to see that each man finished in one hour, with the exception of beginners who had never before counted, and these were allowed ten minutes start.

The favorite was Conrad H. Ray. He has

a large mouth and a hungry look, as well as a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

The rules provided that the competitors should make their own rarebits, each to contain a pound of cheese. The official timer and scorer was to see that each man finished in one hour, with the exception of beginners who had never before counted, and these were allowed ten minutes start.

The favorite was Conrad H. Ray. He has

a large mouth and a hungry look, as well as a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

The rules provided that the competitors should make their own rarebits, each to contain a pound of cheese. The official timer and scorer was to see that each man finished in one hour, with the exception of beginners who had never before counted, and these were allowed ten minutes start.

The favorite was Conrad H. Ray. He has

a large mouth and a hungry look, as well as a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

The rules provided that the competitors should make their own rarebits, each to contain a pound of cheese. The official timer and scorer was to see that each man finished in one hour, with the exception of beginners who had never before counted, and these were allowed ten minutes start.

The favorite was Conrad H. Ray. He has

a large mouth and a hungry look, as well as a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

The rules provided that the competitors should make their own rarebits, each to contain a pound of cheese. The official timer and scorer was to see that each man finished in one hour, with the exception of beginners who had never before counted, and these were allowed ten minutes start.

The favorite was Conrad H. Ray. He has

a large mouth and a hungry look, as well as a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

The rules provided that the competitors should make their own rarebits, each to contain a pound of cheese. The official timer and scorer was to see that each man finished in one hour, with the exception of beginners who had never before counted, and these were allowed ten minutes start.

The favorite was Conrad H. Ray. He has

a large mouth and a hungry look, as well as a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

The rules provided that the competitors should make their own rarebits, each to contain a pound of cheese. The official timer and scorer was to see that each man finished in one hour, with the exception of beginners who had never before counted, and these were allowed ten minutes start.

The favorite was Conrad H. Ray. He has

a large mouth and a hungry look, as well as a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

The rules provided that the competitors should make their own rarebits, each to contain a pound of cheese. The official timer and scorer was to see that each man finished in one hour, with the exception of beginners who had never before counted, and these were allowed ten minutes start.

The favorite was Conrad H. Ray. He has

a large mouth and a hungry look, as well as a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

The rules provided that the competitors should make their own rarebits, each to contain a pound of cheese. The official timer and scorer was to see that each man finished in one hour, with the exception of beginners who had never before counted, and these were allowed ten minutes start.

The favorite was Conrad H. Ray. He has

a large mouth and a hungry look, as well as a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

The rules provided that the competitors should make their own rarebits, each to contain a pound of cheese. The official timer and scorer was to see that each man finished in one hour, with the exception of beginners who had never before counted, and these were allowed ten minutes start.

The favorite was Conrad H. Ray. He has

a large mouth and a hungry look, as well as a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

The rules provided that the competitors should make their own rarebits, each to contain a pound of cheese. The official timer and scorer was to see that each man finished in one hour, with the exception of beginners who had never before counted, and these were allowed ten minutes start.

The favorite was Conrad H. Ray. He has

a large mouth and a hungry look, as well as a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

The rules provided that the competitors should make their own rarebits, each to contain a pound of cheese. The official timer and scorer was to see that each man finished in one hour, with the exception of beginners who had never before counted, and these were allowed ten minutes start.

The favorite was Conrad H. Ray. He has

a large mouth and a hungry look, as well as a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

The rules provided that the competitors should make their own rarebits, each to contain a pound of cheese. The official timer and scorer was to see that each man finished in one hour, with the exception of beginners who had never before counted, and these were allowed ten minutes start.

The favorite was Conrad H. Ray. He has

a large mouth and a hungry look, as well as a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

The rules provided that the competitors should make their own rarebits, each to contain a pound of cheese. The official timer and scorer was to see that each man finished in one hour, with the exception of beginners who had never before counted, and these were allowed ten minutes start.

The favorite was Conrad H. Ray. He has

a large mouth and a hungry look, as well as a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

The rules provided that the competitors should make their own rarebits, each to contain a pound of cheese. The official timer and scorer was to see that each man finished in one hour, with the exception of beginners who had never before counted, and these were allowed ten minutes start.

The favorite was Conrad H. Ray. He has

a large mouth and a hungry look, as well as a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

The rules provided that the competitors should make their own rarebits, each to contain a pound of cheese. The official timer and scorer was to see that each man finished in one hour, with the exception of beginners who had never before counted, and these were allowed ten minutes start.

The favorite was Conrad H. Ray. He has

a large mouth and a hungry look, as well as a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

The rules provided that the competitors should make their own rarebits, each to contain a pound of cheese. The official timer and scorer was to see that each man finished in one hour, with the exception of beginners who had never before counted, and these were allowed ten minutes start.

The favorite was Conrad H. Ray. He has

a large mouth and a hungry look, as well as a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

The rules provided that the competitors should make their own rarebits, each to contain a pound of cheese. The official timer and scorer was to see that each man finished in one hour, with the exception of beginners who had never before counted, and these were allowed ten minutes start.

The favorite was Conrad H. Ray. He has

a large mouth and a hungry look, as well as a tin chafin dish. Every man of the nine had an ambition to break this record and earn for himself an honorable place on the roll on which the State of New Jersey inscribes the names of her sons who have done her credit.

The rules provided that the competitors should make their own rarebits, each to contain a pound of cheese. The official timer and scorer was to see that each man finished in one hour, with the exception of beginners who had never before counted, and these were allowed ten minutes start.

The favorite was Conrad H. Ray. He has

ARMY OF 100,000 IN THIRTY DAYS.

The Vast Temporary Army Can Be Raised in a Twinkling.

AN EXPERIMENT PROPOSED

McKinley Will Follow Miles's Suggestion and Recruit from the Island Natives.

Washington, March 5.—The President must give immediate attention to the establishment of the temporary army of 100,000 men provided for in the bill "to increase the efficiency of the army of the United States and for other purposes."

The work of reorganizing the present force up to the limit and within the terms of the bill has already been referred by the President to the Secretary of War, Adjutant-General Corbin and Colonel Thomas Ward, an Assistant Adjutant-General. They will call into conference with them from time to time General Schwann, Major Johnson and Major Hinson, the latter two having had much experience in the organization of the great volunteer army.

The big task of these officers will be the organization of the 35,000 volunteers.

The organization of the regulars up to 65,000 will be an easy matter. The recruiting reports show that the force has been raised to 59,000 men in the regular army, but to this must be added about 4,000 in the hospital corps, making a present total of 63,000. The Board expects that there will be innumerable offers to the recruiting offices for the necessary 2,000 men.

One of the officers of the board said that it would be possible to create the whole temporary volunteer force in thirty days if the President desired such prompt action. The President, however, proposes to try the experiment suggested by General Miles and incorporated in the bill, of utilizing some of the natives of Porto Rico, Cuba and the Philippines as a part of the 35,000 volunteers.

A majority of the board believe that so far as Cuba and Porto Rico are concerned four-fifths of the troops could well be natives. On the basis of 15,000 volunteer troops for Cuba, 12,000 could be natives and 3,000 Americans, and on the basis of 6,000 in Porto Rico, 1,200 only might be Americans. This would leave 17,000 volunteers for service in the Philippines. It is believed by the board that 10,000 of these should be Americans, because of the uncertainty of the experiment and the expected difficulty of organizing a large number of Filipinos on the American basis.

The present plan, therefore, involves 10,000 Americans for the Philippines, 3,000 for Cuba and about 1,200 for Porto Rico, or a total of 15,000 Americans as the nucleus for the volunteer troops to garrison the Philippine Islands.

One of the board thinks that it may be two years before a Filipino will be enlisted into the army.

The President is expected to order the recruiting for the increased army before he leaves Washington on his proposed tour for rest.

Always Demand The One That Gives Surest, Quickest Relief. That's a

BENSON'S.

3 REAL STAMPS (ON THE GENUINE)

't is the best POROUS PLASTER

Has cured millions. Will help you, if suffering from Lung, Chest, Joint, Muscle or Bone Affections. Price 25c. All Druggists. Refuse substitutes. Or M'rs. Seabury & Johnson, N.Y., if unobtainable.

Nothing carried over. Everything sold the season it's made.

Closing Sale of Overcoats

$6.50, $7.50, $10 AND $15

The policy of carrying nothing over has made this store what it is, and is daily making it what it will be—the store for all men, the store for good clothes at little prices.

To clear out this winter's overcoats we are selling most of them at cost, some at less.

Price out the season with a stylish Overcoat, $6.50.

$10 Overcoats now $6.50.

$12.50 Overcoats now $7.50.

$15.00 and $20 Overcoats now $10.

$25.00 Overcoats now $15.00.

All higher priced Overcoats are $20.00 and $25.00.

E O THOMPSON'S SONS

245 Broadway.

A Cook Book Free

with every package containing tested receipts of delicious new dishes that can be made in a moment with

COOK'S

Flaked

Rice.

15c.

ALL GROCERS.

THE HEALTHIEST FOOD ON EARTH.

MCKINLEY WILL VIEW CARNIVAL.

The President to Preside at the Opening of the Military Tourney.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Military Athletic League, held

Spring Novelties at O'Neill's.

Spring Novelties at O'Neill's.

Spring Novelties at O'Neill's.

Spring Novelties at O'Neill's.

Spring Novelties at O'Neill's.

Spring Novelties at O'Neill's.

Spring Novelties at O'Neill's.

Spring Novelties at O'Neill's.

Spring Novelties at O'Neill's.

Spring Novelties at O'Neill's.

Spring Novelties at O'Neill's.

Spring Novelties at O'Neill's.

Spring Novelties at O'Neill's.

Spring Novelties at O'Neill's.

Spring Novelties at O'Neill's.

Spring Novelties at O'Neill's.

Spring Novelties at O'Neill's.